

Abstract

[0025] A system to improve display efficiency based on recycling a local heat source. In one embodiment, the system includes a display and a lamp to illuminate the display. Heat from a heat generating component within the system is transferred to the lamp. In one embodiment, the lamp is a cold cathode fluorescent lamp (CCFL). The heat can be transferred to the lamp via conduction or convection.